Therefore, encourage one another and build one another up, as indeed you do.

Ms. Aumann's Notes...

Week 27 - The last week of Quarter 3—we are certainly marching through the year. I reflect a lot about this week because two years ago this very time—my students' lives changed dramatically. I think we are still trying to find our way back to a normal, routine, and ordinary school week....is there really such a week? I'm thankful to be able to be in person with my students and see their beautiful faces! I did step out of the classroom for a couple of days to attend an amazing reading conference in Springfield. I have new ideas and books to share with my students!!

Curriculum Notes

Religion-We continued to review Lenten practices. We also worked on a written response. The students read a short poem by a missionary called "Soap." The idea behind the poem was that faith only works when a person uses it. As always, the students read the Sunday Gospel to be ready for Sunday Mass.

Vocabulary-We finished unit 12. We worked on a writing response. Students could choose their prompt. One was if athletes have a responsibility to be role models and the other was if racehorses could be considered athletes. These prompts were inspired by unit 12's writing piece about a famous racehorse called Seabiscuit.

English-We worked on letter form and started another informational essay topic.

Reading-We finished six chapters in Roll of Thunder Hear my Cry. We continue to focus on characterization.

Science-We worked on reviewing chapter 7 with the 'crumple and shoot' game. Our chapter test was more of an application one than just knowing vocabulary.

As I mentioned in a previous email, the flu really hit seventh grade hard over the past couple of weeks. We have prayed for each other! I ask for your prayers, too. May this week- we all be healthy.

Take care. May your Lenten journey continue to be one of prayer and purpose.

Look Who Did What!

Brenna & Claire- for winners at the science crumple & shoot

Norah-for an excellent religion acrostic

Adriyana & Norah-for helping in the classroom

All 7th Graders-for their prayer intentions

Truman- for connecting stories

Please continue to pray for our Mr. McFarland. He does so much to keep our school in great condition. We wish him healthy days ahead.

Matt & Carrie Beyers-for being our Adopt-A-Class sponsors this year

Mrs. Jostes-for subbing for my class

8th Graders- for leading the Stations of the Cross
